

Week 1 Progress Report

Meaghan McCleary

October 30, 2020

Per my proposal, the tasks for this week were as follows:

- Determine whether Spin the most appropriate tool
- Develop full list of specification (English and LTL)
- Begin creation of model

I have accomplished the first two tasks, and did determine Spin to be an appropriate tool choice, but got slightly behind the planned course of action and did not begin creation of the model. This will need to be moved to next week. In the future, I will be storing my work in this Github Repository, which you are welcome to access as you like. I will also add my English and LTL specification list to the repo once I have transferred it from the current written format.